

A Cool Contraption!

A very famous newspaper cartoonist Rube Goldberg loved to draw wonderful, yet crazy machines. These weird inventions had many moving parts. Each part had a task to do that would cause another part to start doing something else. The entire contraption was a series of chain reactions.

Look closely at this wonderful contraption. On the following page compose a list of questions about how the contraption works.

